BARACK OBAMA IS PRESIDENT MARIJUANA IS STILL ILLEGAL NOW IS THE TIME FOR CHANGE!

Why is it that legal drugs kill millions, while naturally occurring drugs are filling our prisons with non-violent offenders?

We are now at a pivotal moment in the history of the "War on Drugs." Obama's new Attorney General, Eric Holder, has announced that the DEA will no longer carry out federal raids, thereby leaving it to the states and the voters to determine future drug policy. Obama's new Drug Czar, Gil Kerlikowske, stated during his first week on the job that we need to "end the War on Drugs" and begin to focus on addiction as a sickness instead of a crime. This is exactly what Kevin Booth's position is in his award-winning Showtime documentary, "American Drug War: the last white hope". Is it possible that his film could have had such an effect on the nation's drug policy? Bring him to your school, and find out what all the buzz is about!!

Kevin Booth is a filmmaker, writer, and musician. You can learn more about him online at SacredCow.com and AmericanDrugWar.com

Kevin connects to his young audiences by allowing them to talk - many have compared the "American Drug War" show to a new style of group therapy.

Kevin has lectured at colleges and universities across the country and is excited to customize his presentation to your students needs, as no two communities share the same exact problems.

"Kevin's show inspired me to refrain from giving any more of my hard earned money to the tobacco, alcohol, and pharmaceutical industries."
- Joe Hernandez / Tampa, FL

"I can't thank Kevin enough for what he has done to expose the hypocrisy of the war on drugs. I'm dedicated to this movement started by Kevin and his film."
- TB Jordan / New York, NY
